Environmentally

FRIENDLY SUN PROTECTION

Coral reefs provide safe havens for many species of animals. They also protect coasts from the effects of bad weather and absorb some of the carbon dioxide and heat in the atmosphere. The products here are considered coral-friendly because they do not contain oxybenzone and are based on much more natural ingredients.

Interview with

Celine Stäubli from C-Derma by Celine

What was your motivation for launching a CBD cosmetics line?

It was always clear to me that I wanted to plan and carry out a beauty project. After studying the market and customer needs, it was clear to me that I wanted to develop a cosmetics brand using the excellent cannabis ingredient CBD (cannabidiol). There was always no question that the products also had to be vegan, organic and sustainable; just “Clean Beauty”. It was also important to me that our products are produced exclusively in Switzerland.

The “C-Derma by Céline” brand is intended to be a special cosmetics brand that stands out from the competition on the market. So I decided that the products should smell pleasant, and that the packaging shouldn’t have the traditional green hemp leaf, but be more playful, feminine and a bit “girly”.

I worked out the recipes for the products with renowned specialists and carried out extensive tests. Thanks to the products’ sophisticated formula, my skin is more beautiful than ever.

Is the active ingredient CBD legal? What are the regulatory requirements for the products?

Swissmedic has regulated the use of CBD in cosmetics. CBD, which is produced synthetically or obtained from various parts of the hemp plant (plant of the Cannabis genus), can be used in cosmetics. The THC content must be < 1%, otherwise the product would fall under the Narcotics Act.

What is the effect of CBD in cosmetics?

CBD has a relaxing, anti-inflammatory and soothing effect on the skin. It can also strengthen the skin’s protective barrier and balance sebum production. This makes CBD very suitable for various skin problems.

What target group are you addressing with C-Derma by Céline?

CBD products have a very broad spectrum of effects. We address all customers who are interested in CBD products and are looking for a solution to their skin problems.
